

A Catalogue of Engravers, Who Have Been Born, or Resided in England (Classic Reprint)

Excerpt from A Catalogue of Engravers, Who Have Been Born, or Resided in England When the monarchs of Egypt erected those stupendous masses, the pyramids, for no other use than to record their names, they little suspected that a weed growing by the Nile would one day be converted into more durable registers of fame, than quarries of marble and granite. Yet, when paper had been invented, what ages rolled away before it was destined to its best service! It is equally amusing to observe what obvious arts escape our touch, and how quickly various channels are deduced from a source when once opened. This was the case of the press: Printing was not discovered till about the year 1430; in thirty years more it was applied to the multiplication of drawings.
