I r. IJ achelder. Ceneral Forney absent, detained by sickness at I ns home. Upon oi ganizat ion tlie commission fonnd important lines of battle occupied by an electric railway, tlie construction of which had begun early in A pril, IS iK). A ft ninspecting the road and tlu land over which it A vas constructed, on July 1the full board assembled and selected Col. E.
B. Cope as toi)ographical engineer. lie was appointed and the assistants selected, a room for the commission rented at (G ettysburg, and the survey of the field was at once commenced and has been daily continued. The first work was to establish a meridian, which in all the survejs since the war had never been done. The datum point of reference was the center of the square in the town of Gettysburg, and a meridian line was established on the high ground of the Gettysburg Battlefield Memorial A ssociation, near Hancock avenue. The north point of this line is near the monument of the One hundred and twenty-sixth New Yoi k Infantry, and the south point near the line of the Benner iroport .T he line was subsequently extended south to the Tenth New York Infantry Monument. The location of the town of Gettysburg, geographically, has been determined to be latitude 39 49 15 and longitude from Washington 014 0west; the altitude above tide water at the Center Scpiare, 550 feet. losing this meridian as a base of operations, there has been run many miles of back-sight transit lines on various parts of
