This is the first of five historical novels in Dumas Marie Antoinette series. The title character, Joseph Balsamo, is modeled after the 18th century Italian adventurer and occultist, Alessandro Cagliostro. At the novels opening he meets with a group of fellow Freemasons and initiates a vast plot to bring down the French Monarchy. The plot traces his machinations during the time of Marie Antoinettes travels from Austria to Paris to wed the future Louis XVI, ending shortly after their marriage. There are a number of subplots including fictional and historical personages, a few well-drawn and developed, more two-dimensional, whose lives intersect and interact in improbable ways in settings that, it must be admitted, convincingly depict the social conditions and politics of the day.
