

Germinal

Germinal (1885) is the thirteenth novel in Emile Zolas twenty-volume series Les Rougon-Macquart. Often considered Zolas masterpiece and one of the most significant novels in the French tradition, the novel an uncompromisingly harsh and realistic story of a coalminers strike in northern France in the 1860s has been published and translated in over one hundred countries and has additionally inspired five film adaptations and two television productions. The title refers to the name of a month of the French Republican Calendar, a spring month. Germen is a Latin word which means seed; the novel describes the hope for a better future that seeds amongst the miners. Emile Edouard Charles Antoine Zola (2 April 1840 29 September 1902) was a French novelist, playwright, journalist, the most well-known practitioner of the literary school of naturalism, and an important contributor to the development of theatrical naturalism. Translated by Havelock Ellis (1859-1939)
