And it seems strange to me that I should this day be called into Question for what not only I, but almost all men, do either secretly or openly countenance, love, and approve Of. Clerk. Sir, we concern not ourselves with your greatness, (though the higher, the better you should have been) but we are concerned, and so are you, about an indictment preferred against you. How say you? are you guilty of it, or not? Lustings. Not guilty. Clerk. Crier, call upon the witnesses to stand forth and give their evidence. witnesses called Crier. Gentlemen, you the witnesses for ngainsi Lutings, the king, come and give in your evidence for our Lord the king against the prisoner at the bar. Clerk. Come Mr. Know-all, look upon the prisoner at the bar. Do you know him? Know-all. Yes, my Lord I know him. Clerk. Wh:it is his name t Know-all. His name is Lustings: he is the son of one Beastly; his mother bare him in Flesh-street: she was one Evil-concupiscences daughter. I know all the generation of them. Clerk. Well said. You have heard his indictment: what say you to it? is he guilty of the things charged him or not? Know-all. My lord, he has, as he sairh. been a great man indeed: and greater in wickedness than by pedigree, more than a thousand fold. Clerk. But what do you know of his particular actions, and especially with reference to his indictment? Know-all. I know him to be a swearer, a liar, a sabbath . breaker; I know him to be a fornicator, and an proved unclean person; I know him to be guilty of abundance of evils. He has been, to my knowledge, a very filthy man. Clerk. But where did he

use to commit his wickedness? in some private c...
