

The Private Correspondence of Benjamin Franklin Comprising a Series of Letters on Miscellaneous, Literary, and Political Subjects, Vol. 2 of 2 (Classic Reprint)

To David Hartley, Esq. M. P. Dear Sir, Paris, Oct. 14, 1777. I received duly your letter of May 2, 77, including a copy of one you had sent me the year before, which never came to hand, and which it seems has been the case with some I wrote to you from America. Filled though our letters have always been with sentiments of goodwill to both countries, and earnest desires of preventing their ruin and promoting their mutual felicity, I have been apprehensive that if it were known a correspondence subsisted between us, it might be attended with inconvenience to you. I have therefore been backward in writing, not caring to trust the post, and not well knowing who else to trust with my letters. But being now assured of a safe conveyance, I venture to write to you, especially as in Vol. II. (Typographical errors above are due to OCR software and do not occur in the book.) About the Publisher
